

So far our character study of Genesis has revealed the humanness of Abraham and his family. From Ur of the Chaldees to the land of Canaan, from Sarah to Hagar, from _____ ruling in Sodom to dwelling in a cave, we have witnessed an eye-ful. Today we move to another person of notoriety and importance, Abraham's son, the patriarch, _____.

Isaac's birth marks the _____ part of God's fulfilling his promise to Abraham. We must remember that the promise was twofold: it included not only a promised _____, but a promised _____ and nation. Isaac is the beginning of these chosen people, people who would become the source of blessing to the whole earth. However, Isaac is much more than a significant historic figure; he has the honor of being a living portrait of the One who would be the ultimate source of _____ blessing, The Lord Jesus Christ.
